1.0 DESCRIPTION OF REQUIREMENT

1.1 CDA-AMC Overview

Canada's federal, provincial, and territorial health care decision makers rely on CDA-AMC to provide them with credible, impartial advice and evidence-based information about the effectiveness of drugs and other health technologies. Our scope includes health technology assessment, the clinical and cost-effectiveness of new drugs, and best practices in drug prescribing and use in Canada.

Guiding Principles:

Our approach to assessing evidence, and everything we do at CDA-AMC, is guided by five principles:

Excellence. We will prioritize the quality, objectivity, and impact of our work.

Agility. We will be responsive to change by embedding flexibility and humility in how we work.

Partnership. We will work and partner intentionally to drive meaningful outcomes and system-level impact.

Inclusion, Diversity, Equity, and Accessibility. We will strive to ensure our work is reflective of all people living in Canada.

Integrity. We will be accountable for our work and transparent in our processes, methods, and decisions.

CDA-AMC is committed to integrating inclusion, diversity, equity, and accessibility (IDEA) into our work within health systems that represent the multiple perspectives and diversity found within Canada's population. Inclusion, Diversity, Equity, and Accessibility Statement | CDA-AMC \(cda-amc.ca\).

CDA-AMC acknowledges the critical need for Indigenous perspectives in Canadian health care systems. As a health systems leader, we affirm our commitment to Reconciliation through our Statement of Reconciliation | CDA-AMC \(cda-amc.ca\).

CDA-AMC will also assess how technologies impact the environmental footprint of health systems. To broaden our view, we will seek the perspectives of our diverse network of partners, including patients and clinicians, and work closely with other pan-Canadian health organizations to generate synergies whenever possible.

Canada's Drug Agency – Request for Standing Offers

4.4 Period of Standing Offer Agreement

The Standing Offer Agreement resulting from this RFSO will be valid from October 1, 2026 to September 30, 2029.

4.5 Artificial Intelligence

For the purposes of this RFSO:

"Artificial Intelligence" or "AI" means any machine-based system or tool that uses automated or algorithmic processes to generate, assist in generating, modify, analyze, summarize, translate, predict, or otherwise produce text, data, research outputs, citations, images, or other materials, including but not limited to generative AI models, large language models, machine learning systems, and similar technologies, whether proprietary, open-source, or publicly available.

CDA-AMC generally restricts the use of AI by its partners in connection with CDA-AMC projects. Bidders are expected to limit any use of AI and to use AI only where such use is reasonable, necessary, and justifiable in relation to the objectives of the Project.

Where AI is used, it must be used solely in furtherance of the Project, in a manner that is transparent, proportionate, and consistent with the nature and sensitivity of the work, and in a way that preserves the privacy, confidentiality, and security of CDA-AMC information and any personal, confidential, or proprietary information processed in connection with the Project. AI must not be used in a manner that results in the unauthorized disclosure, retention, reuse, or training of AI systems on CDA-AMC information, nor in a way that compromises CDA-AMC's obligations relating to confidentiality, data protection, or research integrity.

CDA-AMC reserves the right to review, restrict, or prohibit any proposed or ongoing use of AI in connection with the Project where, in its reasonable opinion, such use is inconsistent with these principles.

4.6 Project Overview, Requirements, and Deliverables

As part of CDA-AMC's commitment to leadership development, it has been our practice to provide confidential coaching support to selected executive leadership and management team members. Coaching sessions are intended to support applied, on-the-job learning and leader-to-leader interaction, giving these employees practical takeaways that can be applied to their everyday work. As a component of the leadership development at CDA-AMC, coaching is a critical tool for developing leaders at all levels to fulfill their potential and solve complex challenges.

From new managers to executive leaders, the coach is expected to work with each program participant and their manager on development goals to support CDA-AMC's Strategic Business Objectives. Coaching is an integrated component of our existing Leadership Academy, which includes asynchronous learning (through our LMS) and synchronous learning (through leadership retreats). We are looking to build a roster of coaches to provide leadership coaching support services to our leadership team.

I. Coaching Process

- a) The coach and employee will meet for a brief chemistry meeting to ensure a good fit.
- b) If after that first meeting, the coach is not a fit for the employee, the vendor will have up to 5 business days to propose an alternative coach. If substitutions are delayed or unsuccessful, CDA-AMC reserves the right to select an alternate vendor for the coaching engagement.
- c) After a good fit is determined, the coach would meet with a selected employee on a schedule agreeable to both parties. The first meeting will be considered the triangulation meeting and would include the employee's people-leader to ensure alignment on goals and how progress will be measured. These confidential coaching meetings would be one hour long and follow a standard coaching cycle: 1) Identify areas for growth; 2) Set desired and observable outcomes; 3) Discuss practice; 4) Compare practice to desired and observable outcomes; 5) Suggest change.

Canada's Drug Agency – Request for Standing Offers

II. Coaching Groups

The coaching program will target three groups of leaders, with group 2 and 3 being the majority of engagements.

- a) Group 1: Executive-level coaching
 - (12-month engagement totaling 24 coaching hours)
 - In a dynamic and volatile marketplace, the demands on our executives to anticipate, innovate, and transform remain high. To assist them in meeting this challenge, executive coaching can offer additional insights, support, and perspectives to enable them to succeed.
- b) Group 2: Select leaders seeking development opportunities
 - (6-month engagement totaling 12 coaching hours)
 - Organizational demands may occasionally necessitate additional development to achieve the goals of CDA-AMC's Annual Business Plan for both high-potential leaders and development opportunities.
- c) Group 3: New leaders brought into their position through promotion or acquisition
 - (3-month engagement totaling 6 coaching hours)
 - A selection of new leaders receive coaching during their first 6 months in their new roles to align them with their expanded responsibilities and equip them with skills to achieve measurable results.

III. Requirements:

- a) Extensive coaching experience
- b) Not-for-profit experience, private sector experience in a senior management or executive role
- c) Change management experience
- d) Experience supporting group dialogue and complex discussions, reflecting the facilitation and influencing skills expected of leaders.
- e) Coaching client references

IV. Assets:

- a) Background in science, healthcare
- b) Certified Coaching Credential
- c) Bilingual (English and French)

Canada's Drug Agency – Request for Standing Offers

V. Optional services:

- a) Optional services (ex. 360s, assessments, etc.) which are not included in the standard coaching package must be priced separately and requested as early as possible. If optional services are declined, it must not diminish the quality of the core coaching.

VI. Interested bidders should submit their application, including responses to the following questions:

- a) Describe your coaching philosophy. What is your approach?
- b) How has coaching support evolved? What's new?
- c) In your opinion, in what circumstances do coaching services have the most significant impact?
- d) Describe your best coaching experience.
- e) Explain why your coaching services may be the ideal fit to address CDA-AMC's coaching requirements.

4.7 Standing Offer Agreement (SOA) Overview

- a) CDA-AMC will establish a Standing Offer Agreement (SOA) with the vendor that will outline capability, financial rates, payment terms, and capabilities. The SOA does not oblige CDA-AMC to authorize or order any services whatsoever or to spend the estimated expenditure or any monies whatsoever.
- b) Call-up: A contractual obligation will come into force only if there is an authorized "Call-up" against the Standing Offer Agreement and only to the extent stipulated in the Call up. Information in the Call-up includes, but is not limited to, the following:
 - i. All Services will be requested in writing by the representative assigned by CDA-AMC. Each agreed to service will be recorded in a supplemental Standing Offer Call-up and form a part of the Standing Offer Agreement.
 - ii. The deliverables will be specified in the Call-up. Deliverables may vary from Call-up to Call-up.
 - iii. Fees will be stated, based on complexity and nature of the services.
- c) CDA-AMC does not guarantee the amount of work. Call-ups are based largely on the service requirements and may differ from Call-up to Call-up. CDA-AMC intends to execute a number of standing offers agreements with different vendors.
